

Pocket Money Contract

Thank you for downloading the pocket money contract.

The idea for the contract first came about when my partner and I started paying our daughter a weekly allowance.

It was important to us that she understood that pocket money was not just going to be given to her each week. We wanted her to understand that she had to EARN it (in the same way that adults who work get paid for the work they do).

The pocket money contract should be completed together with your daughter and everyone should agree.

Whilst it was created to teach young children responsibility, reward and consequence, it was also created with fun in mind.

In our case, our daughter found completing the contract motivating and she was up for the challenge.

When she was asked to sign it with her signature (which doesn't exist) she found it creative and fun... she felt like a big girl.

I hope you find the contract helpful and useful.
